

ATTARD'S KITCHENS & CABINETS

DIVERSE DESIGNS

CREATING SPACE AND STYLE

Attard's Kitchens & Cabinetry has achieved an outstanding transformation with this renovation project. The clients wanted a functional kitchen that would integrate seamlessly with the home's original features. Attard's Kitchens & Cabinetry has delivered, with clean, classic lines and a pure white palette.

A lack of space proved to be the most challenging component of this renovation. The previously U-shaped kitchen was cramped and compressed into a corner, with little room to move or sit comfortably.

Attard's Kitchens & Cabinetry has completely opened the space, opting for a marble island bench and an open-plan layout, integrating the kitchen and informal living area. The island bench, with polyurethane panels, also serves as a table, eliminating the need for extra furniture that would create clutter.

ILVE appliances have been seamlessly installed and are semi-concealed, maximising space and ensuring the kitchen maintains its new streamlined appearance. A separate cooking and preparation zone allows these activities to take place simultaneously.

Natural light now filters through the French doors, which have replaced the previously existing windows, allowing access to the courtyard outside.

This kitchen is a good indication of the diverse capabilities of Attard's Kitchens & Cabinetry, from the very modern to the more traditional. Built to reflect the home's Federation style, this kitchen adopts a two-tone finish, with the routed cabinets hand-painted to create an authentic old-fashioned look.

To prevent the dark colour palette from making the space appear small, white gloss tiles in 'Matte Latte' and the Quantum Quartz benchtop in 'Pearly Shores' add contrast and balance things out.

This kitchen also lacked space, so Attard's Kitchens & Cabinetry cleverly integrated the pantry, fridge and freezer into a unit just outside the archway, disguised as furniture. Despite not being located in the kitchen, the unit still blends with the kitchen's décor and is positioned within a practical distance.

Mother-of-pearl antique silver knobs and satin nickel handles are the finishing touches that contribute to the overall Federation style; an example of the Attard's Kitchens & Cabinetry eye for detail.

This is another example of the company's ability to create space. Attards Kitchens & Cabinetry has transformed this once small and poky kitchen into a spacious area.

With its combination of clean lines and subtle heritage features, including the gooseneck tap and porcelain sink, this kitchen is a true contemporary classic. Recessed aluminium-profile handles are a modern feature, while traditional-style mismatched bench stools add a slightly provincial vibe.

A dark marble benchtop provides some contrast to the otherwise neutral colour scheme, while still being complementary. The sleek aesthetic continues with an integrated combination fridge and freezer and Blum Aventos doors. The overall effect of this renovation project is a functional kitchen with both character and style.
